GUI programming is for visual information and is more beginner friendly than CLI. CLI coding is used to process information and data. For GUI programming python is a common resource used not only for learning but also for developing apps.